COLOUR FASTNESS & STAIN RESISTANCE

TO SEA WATER:

To obtain the highest resistance to weather and light the Manufacturer uses only high-grade pigments compatible with the stabilizer systems used. Tests completed February 2008

STANDARD: ISO 105-E02[1994] + Corr[2002], NBN EN 105-E02[1996]0
METHOD: A test sample composed of multi-fibre is attached to the test sample. The sample is immersed in salt water under pressure and at 37°C for 4 hours. The colour change as well as the staining on the adjacent fabrics/multi-fibre fabric is evaluated against a standard grey scale with values ranging between 1-5. (A rating of 5 means no colour change or staining on the adjacent fabric)

COLOUR FASTNESS: 4-5
STAINING: 5

TO CHLORINATED WATER:

STANDARD: ISO 105-E02[1994]0, NBN EN ISO 105-E03[1996]0
METHOD: A test sample shaken for 1 hour at 27°C is treated with a weak Sodium Hypochlorite solution of up to 100mg active chlorine per litre and then dried. The colour change as well as the staining on the multi-fibre fabric is evaluated against a standard grey scale with values between 1-5. (A rating of 5 means no colour change or staining on the adjacent fabric)

STAINING: 5
